PHASES OF CHANGE

The Mad Typist© 2009

In this edition of the 'In Focus', you will read in most articles the common themes of change, support, community, youth and "Yes Wi Can".

It is said that 'change' is that constant in this world that you can always rely on to happen. How we embrace change and move ahead, is the most important element that will decide success or failure. Quite recently the JCA's Board of Directors, went through their own version of change.

The Board experienced three major member vacancies; The President, Treasurer and Executive Secretary. All three past roles had volunteered with the organization, without question, very admirable, passionately and committed. Amid the past roles, none was more pivotal than that of the President, Herman Stewart. Herman started a campaign to revive the organization; re-energize JCA's membership and staff, increase fundraising and strengthen relationships with partners and funders. Herman's campaign and vision borrowed the winning theme of President Barack Obama and was re-worded to "Yes Wi Can" - maintaining the organization's Jamaican roots, 'Wi', instead of 'We'. Hence it came as a sad note throughout the organization when Mr. Stewart, for personal reasons, left his position from his young Board (in average age and tenure with the organization).

Rewind more than 45 years ago, this organization was established by a group that was around the same youthful age. Now, this young Board, with their experience and knowledge, can tap into a wealth of information from past Presidents and members that have been there with the organization throughout its years. The support for the new Board was reinforced resoundingly by the (Cont. P5)

Packed hall, eager well wishers, paparazzi cameras, aspiring young athletes, vibrant entertainers, pride and joy - were all a part of the atmosphere inside the Jamaican Canadian Association hall on Thursday, January 15 when the Association was graced by the presence of Olympian 400m record holder, Jamaican Melaine Walker. Melaine described it better. She said "There is so much vibes, support and love in this room that on such a cold night". It really was - the turn out was great!

Walker, her parents and community leaders from her neighborhood in Rose Town Jamaica, were the distinguish guests of a fundraising event for the Rose Town community development area hosted by the Jamaican Diaspora Canada Foundation (JDCF). Every moment of the night was full of cheers and joy. The entertainment was very electrifying, fun filled and heart warming. One dance group, Baby Boyz, performed a medley of dance moves backed by a melting pot of different music genre. Another, entertainer,

Steele, sang a melody while Melaine's parents blessed us with an onstage dance together. The audience showed their delight through laughter at the antics performed in Devon Haughton's skit, featuring well known actors Marcia Brown and Naggio Morrison. The skit replayed the footage of Melaine's Beijing triumph. One of Rose Town's community leaders, Michael Black, relayed that he (Cont. P4)

INTERIM PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Audrey Campbell

As the Acting President, it is my pleasure to bring greetings to all members and friends of the Jamaican Canadian Association (JCA) on behalf of the Board of Directors. We ushered in the New Year with a change at the helm. Our President, Herman Stewart, departed from the organization. It was with a heavy heart that we, the Board, and you, the membership, accepted his resignation. His legacy and years of commitment resonate throughout the halls of the organization. We are grateful for the time spent with him. We wish him well in all his future endeavours.

As we move forward, the Board is cohesive and very much committed to the initiatives outlined by the former President. Fundraising continues to be the number one priority with an eye not only on paying off the mortgage but to also supporting the many social assistance and membership programs. The raffle is ready to go under the direction of Janet Neilson and Edna Smith-Bowes, Fundraising Chair. The raffle tickets are now available and with your support we anticipate a very successful event. The direct mail campaign is still on track and will be launched in March. We will be asking the community to show their support by donating $47; one dollar for each year of JCA's existence. We are sensitive to the fact that we are entering tough economic times. Donations can be made in instalments as budgets dictate.

The results of the organizational review conducted are being implemented in stages. The first step is the hiring of a CEO for the Social Services program side. The new CEO will play an integral role in the establishment of the new management structure. The hiring committee is in the final stages of the process and anticipate the new person will be in place very shortly.

As we head into the Annual General Meeting, we continue to outreach to the community and building on our relationship with other community organizations. Our focus is also on building a strong youth base and addressing youth related issues. JCA is the lead agency in organizing the 'Roots of Youth Violence' forum to be held at JCA in March. Our Youth Chair and Public Relations Chair are working with the Jamaican Diaspora and the Jamaican Consulate to host this event with Alvin Curling.

I would like to take opportunity to thank the members of the JCA for their support. We, the Board, are very proud and honoured to build on the work of the members that founded this organization with a vision for generations to come.

BLACK HISTORY MONTH HIGHLIGHT— Marcus Mosiah Garvey

Marcus Garvey's greatest contribution to the Harlem Renaissance was that of changing African Americans' perception of themselves. He encouraged them to promote unity among themselves. If must be free, you must become so through your own effort. Garvey emphasized racial pride. He encouraged Blacks to be proud of their history. He was the first Black leader to use the phrase Black Is Beautiful which was adopted by the Black Power Movement of the 1960s.

Marcus Garvey wanted Black people to elevate their position in society by creating their own position of fame, canonize our own saints, create our own martyrs and honour Black women and men who have made distinct contribution to our racial history. Long before the new advocacy Marcus Garvey was preaching about the values of self-worth and against defeatism among Blacks before current educators climbs unto the bandwagon. He encouraged Black parents to give their children dolls that look like themselves to play with and cuddle.

Marcus Garvey, popularly known as the Black Moses was undoubtedly one of the major figures in the Harlem Renaissance (the New Awakening of art, literature, philosophy, music and politics...), which subsequently permeated the entire Black population of the United States.

ACTING EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR'S MESSAGE

Karen Brown, AED

Change - It is the single most powerful word that has propelled the vision and aim of Barack Obama to become the new Leader of the world. He has invigorated the world with renewed energy to believe in the impossible and to achieve what was thought to be unachievable. Alas, we have agreed to accept change and to forge forward with a new leader and new visions that will catapult us to deliver exceptional culturally specific services to the families and individuals of the African Caribbean community. Once again our social services programs are experiencing some restructuring in terms of ushering in a new Chief Executive Officer. This of course is an exciting time to be a part of this historical and progressive change being undertaken by the Association.

Not only are we ready for change but so is our community, specifically the African Caribbean community. Though gun violence, physical violence, knife related violence and violence against women continue to afflict our community, the people are fighting back. Not with weapons, but by virtue of reaching out to community organizations like the JCA. Families, youth and individuals are demanding our services. Accessing social services, though still a taboo in our community, is becoming an increasingly meaningful resource. Our community is in need of financial, housing, immigration, counseling, educational support and advocacy. In response our community members heralded the plea through donations to the organizations that provided food and financial support to families and individuals in need.

Our programs and services are thriving. The Youth Opportunity Strategies Program so far has served approximately 2000 youth in the North Quadrant. This success is shared with our partnering agencies: The Griffin Centre, Midaynta, Promoting Education and Community Health (P.E.A.C.H), Black Action Defense Committee BADC, Hincks Dellcrest Centre and Jane Finch Community and Family Centre. Hall Rental is currently operating at capacity as rental space continues to be in high demand.

The staff members at JCA have been particularly patient throughout this restructuring process. But more importantly, they have shown their strong resilience. The staff has collectively and individually shown their commitment to work out the kinks, changes and uncertainty they have experienced over the last few months. They have laughed in the face of adversity. The staff has shown tremendous growth, strength, wisdom in terms of maneuvering through difficult times and has served this agency with much resolve. They have maintained the high standard of service and program delivery expected by the Association in accordance with the JCA's mandate. They have performed their duties steeped in pride and a natural love for the work they do. No task too big or small, they never shun away from a request or task. The staff has not faltered but has depicted a stance of unity and connectedness. Our staff members recognized the call for duty and did not hesitate to step up to the plate. Staff sat down and broke bread with each other to seal their solidarity to the clients, community partners, the board and the members.

Staff, without all of your dedication and hard work, our goals would have been unattainable. I would like to personally thank the Staff, Board, Members and Volunteers for the support, guidance and positive message they afforded me throughout this transitory period. To you all, I am sincerely grateful for the opportunity and experience.

Thank you.

Rose Town, where? Michael black, Who?

Michael Black is the President of the Rose Town Benevolent Society. During an interview with the Mad Typist at the Melaine Walker Event at the JCA, he said "Well, I want to tell you that it is my first time leaving the shores of Jamaica and the vibes feel good especially what is going on here tonight (fundraising put on by the Diaspora). Melaine can be thanked for most of this however the development of Rose Town has been going on since as early as 1997 way before she won gold. She is one of the great fruit of that community and she is doing her part to help in its development. There had been a great political divide within this community between north and south. We had peace for awhile until the year of 2000. However, a group of us formed a Citizen Concern Association and we obtained the support from both these communities and we kept moving. In 2003, we build a Community Center with computers to help educate the youth. We secured help from the Kingston Restoration Corporation (KRC). The Ministry of National Security has a program called Citizen Security and Justice Program, we secured funding from this to help pay actual teachers to help out in our community center with our youth. We are working with an international agency, the Prince's Foundation, to help in rebuilding the community." Read more on the JCA Website www.jcassoc.org.

Young Entrepreneur Gives Back to the Community

If you are regular visitor to the JCA's web site or have visited it in the past, you might have noticed there are some significant changes to the current site's pages. The site is currently being revamped by Ainsley Miller, a young web developer who is an active member of the JCA's Youth Affairs Committee (YAC). Ainsley is the founder of Promilia Corporation (www.promilia.com), a company that is dedicated to developing web pages for its clients. Ainsley is a young entrepreneur and also a student at York University where he pursuing a degree in Information Technology. He has been dedicating volunteer time with the JCA to reconstruct its web presence that will offer dynamic and capable features. New pages will be added to the site while old ones will be made obsolete. The look of the site will still be consistent with its predecessor but with more functionality. In the "back room", it will be easier for the web master to update the pages on a regular making it more up-to-date and relevant to the community. President Barack Obama said in his address to many in his speeches that it will take a community involvement from everyone to rise above the societal challenges, and so it is refreshing to see young volunteers like Ainsley Miller giving his valuable time to build the great organization of the JCA. Much thanks to this young man.

called his family in Jamaica during the event for them to hear the heart warming event that the Diaspora had put on. The Diaspora and its Future Leaders group and friends carried out various fundraising initiatives during this paid event. There was overwhelming support in numbers from the community despite the cold weather. Donations were given and vendors sold their wares and autographed pictures were taken with the lady of honors. This great night was wrapped up by Melaine as she thanked her supporters and the Diaspora, and went on to deliver a great message along with responses to audience questions. She shared with us where she is from; her community and her education. She expressed how grateful she was for all the support she had received while growing up and pursuing her career. She shared her winning formula: effort, an extra drive, discipline and motivation. She urged others not to live for others, but to live for ourselves, and know who you are. Melaine Walker graced us with humility and love, which was felt throughout the hall. Her formula for success and her message for support is a sign that one more leader is being harvested. ... Melaine Walker. Walk Good!

"Distinguished Leaders"

A poem by Ava Tenn

Dear Distinguished Leaders:
Martin Luther King, Marcus Garvey,
Rosa Parks, Fredrick Douglas,
Malcolm X, and Harriet Tubman.

I'm writing this letter with love and respect, on behalf of myself and those who believe in Equal Rights.

I am a proud Black African-Jamaican who has recognized you, the black people before me who fought to make my days better than the ones you endured.

I've got the most amazing news to share a historical moment happened on November 4, 2008.

A Black Senator, 47-year-old Barack Hussein Obama, won Presidency of the United States of America.

Yes! That's what I said. Let me repeat!

A Blackman was elected President; a Blackman will live in the White House not as a servant, but as the head of the State, the head of the Government.

A Blackman was elected to be the Highest Political Official in the United States; an important, respected overseer and advisor.

Leaders, all that you endured to make sure that this day would come and it's finally here! All your visions and hopes of us being treated with equal rights came through last night. The change is here at last. The victory was beautiful, historical and unbelievable. People from all over the US voted, All the races came together. Lines were stretched across city streets as people waited for hours to vote. They came together and voted for a change.

When the ballots were tallied and the winner was announced people hugged, laughed and cried all at the same time, they didn't care who they were hugging, they were just happy. The world took part in the election. It was the biggest historical moment in the history of history. There is no comparison.

The "change" that you fought and died for, gave your life for, that change has come. "We over came."

I am delighted to tell you that all your blood, sweat and tears did not go in vane; your words did not fall on deaf ears. We heard you loud and clear.

We thank you forefathers and mothers. On our hands and knees with joy in our hearts and tears in our eyes, we thank you for paving the way.

You each were the passion and drive Obama had in him. Your words and actions, his wisdom and beliefs and the many people who had so much faith in him that made him win. It was the love in his heart, the care in his voice, the truth in his eyes. It was the love and strength of his grandmother whom he loved unconditionally and who unfortunately passed-on just one day before the election took place. Barack Obama is the package that came from God. Out of many he choose one. The one who knew, who felt, who could relate, the one who loves and respects all race. Obama is whom God has been grooming for each and everyone.

Each of you would be so proud. You too would laugh and jump and cry. The win, the victory, was just magnificent. We love you: we thank you all.

Until we meet, God bless you all and the many before you.

From Ava and all the generations.

JCA membership on Sunday, January 25 at a special meeting. Audrey Campbell, then Vice-President, assumed the role of Acting-President. Carol Fox, Accountant and long standing JCA member, took up the reign as Treasurer. Edna Smith-Bowes active Fundraiser and member for the organization glided comfortable into the long vacant role as Fundraising Chair. Kellie Spence, current assistant secretary, assumed some of the responsibility of the executive secretary until that role can be properly filled. As for the rest of the Board members, they stayed committed in their role and pledged to move forward and enhance the campaign and vision of their past President. To date Ms. Campbell has been actively engaging with JCA's Acting Executive Director, Karen Brown, along with various funders and community partners. All fundraising initiatives are still on track. Events that were planned by the different committees are still being given the green light. Old partnerships have been strengthened with new life and new partnerships have been forged. The JCA is a cornerstone in the community recognized by its membership, staff, board, partners, the community and funders - so the drum beats on and even louder.

Change is inevitable and the new Board seems to be fully aware of this and making the most of it. Past Britain Prime Minister Winston Churchill once said, "It's not enough that we do our best; sometimes we have to do what's required." Keep the chant and action alive... "Yes Wi Can!". Charmaine Sewell, Chair

My journey to Washington began November 4th 2008, on Election Night USA. As the returning numbers indicated a sure victory for Barack Obama, I knew that on January 20th, 2009, I wanted to be in Washington, D. C.

As the Obama family appeared on stage and he stood before that Chicago crowd to give his acceptance speech, I longed to be there.

There have been several occasions down through the ages when God in His infinite wisdom deemed it necessary to send a "Moses" to deliver a People from certain oppression. There is little doubt that, during this moment in US and world history, Barack Obama is the "Moses" for our time. Not only would he be the President of the United States of America, but he has affected a global change in the mindset of countless people in every nation like no other movement has ever done. No. He is not the Messiah. He is simply the man whom God has chosen to help guide a generation out of ruin.

On the bus, most of us gave our reasons for braving the frigid temperatures to see history being made. In a generation of bad tempers, rudeness, and blatant self-centeredness, I give full praise to my fellow travelers and would like to again say sorry to the gentleman whose foot I kept kicking every time I changed position throughout the trip.

We arrived in Arlington, Virginia at 4:30 A.M., purchased our $10.00 commemorative day pass and boarded the Metro into Washington. Beginning with the train ride, my friend's huge Canadian flag, plus the smaller ones that had been provided to us on the bus, were the cause of curious conversations throughout the day. You could feel the euphoria in everyone you met. People smiled and greeted each other as if they were long time acquaintances. Instinctively everyone knew everyone else's destination. There was an unmistakable tenor of pride in the voices of each American we spoke to. Pride in knowing the world had come to celebrate with them, and were praising them for this momentous accomplishment. Their moment in time!

The 6:30 A.M. crowd at the National Mall seemed surreal somehow. Strangers conversing with each other as we watched highlights of the weekend's celebrations play across the jumbo screens. By 10:00 A.M. the sun, emitting no heat, shined down as brightly as in the middle of July. Not one single person seemed to mind the cold or that we were pushed up against each other like sardines. There was no desire to complain; we were all a part of the same dream and we were living the moment. Every soul, our hearts beating in unison, in oneness, waited for time to pass. Our senses heightened with an indescribable sense of happiness. The crowd roared as Barack's image appeared on the screen. Then a deafening silence as we watched this simple man who had risen from humble beginnings, stood before a crowd of millions to take the oath of office, officially making him the 44th President of The United States of America, the first African-American citizen to hold such a position.

Only God in His infinite wisdom could have written such a story.

Yes he did!

K-CLUB & SMTP PARTNERS TO CREATE A GREAT SUCCESS STORY

John is a 16-year-old male who was born in Jamaica and was abandoned by his mother at an early age. His paternal grandmother sponsored him to live with her in Canada where he lived for the past 10 years. John demonstrated a great deal of rebellious behaviour to his grandmother as well as ongoing conflicts with his cousin. He also got into several altercations at school. After various meetings between the school and his grandmother the school suspended him for a short while. His grandmother then engaged the Jamaican Canadian Association (JCA) Youth and Family Services for help.

Caribbean Youth and Family Service, in particular the K-Club, advocated with the school system on behalf of the family and was successful in getting the appropriate assessment for him which then allowed him to be placed into a smaller class setting. This allowed him to be more focused as well as having access to his own Youth Worker. We recommended I then recommended him to the JCA Saturday morning tutorial program while I continued to engage him in individual and family counselling. Eventually, John was reintegrated back into a regular class-size at school. The relationship at home improved and contact was made with his father in the United States who after some consultation took John to live with him and his new family. My latest follow-up indicated that John has made the transition very well and is in school.

The school, John and his grandmother all expressed their thanks and gratitude to the JCA for the valuable assistance provided.

BOLT to Educational Success!

Happy African History Month, Everyone!

As we have been caught up in Obama fever this last month, let us not forget where he came, where we came from. We come from a long history of people that have cried, suffered, and sometimes perished. However, we persevered. We toiled together, we laughed together, we danced together and we fought together. We fought for our rights. Rights to enjoy the fruits of this earth and the privileges of an evolving society. As we celebrate African History Month, we remember our ancestors that have come before us. They have paved the way for the success that we can achieve today.

Whatever stage in life we are in - child, student, adult, father, mother or elder - let us look forward to the opportunities that we can create for ourselves in the future.

The Annual JCA Black History Month Celebration will take place on Thursday February 26 from 9:00 am to 12 noon. Approximately 400 students will be participating in the event. The Guest Speaker will be Ontario Judge Justice Kofi Barnes and other special guests include Farley Flex, Consul General Anne Marie Bonner, Robert Small and Tiki Carpenter-Clarke. Toronto Police, the Canadian Forces (to be confirmed), the Jamaica Information Service (to be confirmed) and the Minister of Education will be participating also. There will be several performances from the students and local entertainers. The MC will be Letna Allen-Rowe.

My personal goal is to see JCA do well and service the community the way it was meant to be.

Q: What would you like the membership to know about you?

A: I consider myself very fortunate, that's why I joined the JCA. It's important to give back to the community. My gift is to serve the JCA so that others can benefit from it. My hobby is photography.

Q: Outside of the JCA, do you have any other community involvement?

A: I am a Fleet supervisor at the United Parcel Service. I was the United Way Coordinator for the 2005, 2006 and 2007 Campaigns.

Q: The month of February is Black History month and Family day and Valentine's Day also occur during this month. What thoughts do you have on any of these topics?

A: Family is very important. I think a family staying together will create stronger bond and a larger group within the black community. It's important for men to stay within the family and raise their sons to be responsible men.

Q: How long have you been a member of the JCA?

A: On and off since 1991

Q: What do you hope to achieve in this coming year as Building Chair?

A: I hope for more people and also more young people on the committee.
